

Buildings made with Claybank Brick

[A Partial Inventory – Updated to 15 November 2019]

NOTE: Some identification needs to be verified.

As a Twin Cities brick made at Grand Forks, North Dakota is very similar to Claybank's T.P. Moka, some of the buildings identified as being faced with Claybank brick may actually be faced with bricks from the American factory.

Building that are definitely faced with Claybank brick are listed as “confirmed”

The three primary face bricks made at Claybank include: T-P Moka, Ruf-TeX and Tapestry – all containing the key characteristic: black flecks. All Claybank bricks range from very light beige to dark brown. No red bricks were ever manufactured at Claybank.

T-P Moka (most made without the name)
