President's Report to Annual General Meeting, 29 May 2010

The year 2009–2010 has been an eventful one for the Manitoba Historical Society, with a major reorganization of our administrative structure, and the launch of two new programs. The first completes the consolidation of the two largest parts of the Society's activities, the Society business office and the Dalnavert Museum, made possible when the Office moved to the Dalnavert Visitors' Centre. The new programs are intended to raising the Society's profile throughout Manitoba by increasing our role in providing heritage information to the public, and celebrating what we know of our past.

Reorganization. Details of the reorganization of the Society's affairs, with the creation of two new full-time employee positions and reassignment of some responsibilities, was explained in Time Lines for March/April 2010. As noted there, the position of

G. Goldsborough

Dr. Gerald Friesen, Professor of History at the University of Manitoba, gave a fascinating talk at the 2010 AGM on the findings of a national survey about the views of Canadians on history.

Director of Dalnavert Museum was discontinued in January. Following approval of the new organizational structure by the MHS Council, Jacqueline Friesen, our business Manager, was appointed to one of the two new positions, that of Chief Administrative Officer. A search committee was struck to fill the other new position, that of Chief Program Officer and Curator, Dalnavert Museum. This position has been widely advertised, and when the competition closed, on 15 May, we had 25 applicants, several of whom are clearly very well qualified for the position. Interviews will be conducted during the first week of June, and we plan to have the position filled very soon after that.

MHS President
Dr. Harry Duckworth

The main effect of the reorganization is to assign all financial aspects of the Society's activities to the Chief Administrative Officer, while the Chief Program Officer and Curator will be responsible for Dalnavert Museum, including the development of new programs, exhibitions and activities that will increase public interest in the Museum. Both officers will report directly to the Executive of the Society's Council. The Manager of our other Museum, Ross House, will report to the Chief Program Officer and Curator, while supervision of the Dalnavert Gift Shop, and commercial bookings of space in the Visitors Centre, are the responsibility of the Chief Administrative Officer. Since January, Jacqueline Friesen has been bringing the financial information together, putting all the accounts on the same basis, and preparing the ground for a unified budget for all the Society's activities. The current situation is reflected in the audited statements for 2009–2010, in the Treasurer's Report. During the next few months, the operating expenses will be carefully examined, and a complete budget for fiscal 2011–2012 will be prepared, with input by the Executive, the Chief Administrative Officer, and the Chief Program Officer and Curator, so as to be ready for consideration by Council in November 2010. A significant part of the Society's resources are specifically earmarked for Dalnavert, and these restrictions will be carefully respected. The consolidation of all our business operations under one Society officer has led to an unvarnished picture of how we are doing financially and it is clear that we have several problems to solve. Getting the picture clear, however, has been an essential step, and I am confident that we will be able to adjust to our situation.

G. Goldsborough

Recipients of the 2009 Margaret McWilliams awards for excellence in writing about Manitoba's history attended the AGM to receive their certificates. Joining MHS President Harry Duckworth (centre) were Robert Talbot (left) and Allan Levine (right). Talbot won for his biography of former Manitoba Lieutenant-Governor Alexander Morris (1826-1889) while Levine was recognized for his history of Manitoba's Jewish community. Ralph Friesen, the third McWilliams winner who wrote a history of early Steinbach, was unable to attend the ceremony. See the MHS web site at www.mhs.mb.ca/news/mcwilliams2009/winners.shtml for more details.

Homes of Memorable Manitobans Program. In last year's President's Report, it was stated that Ross Metcalfe was chairing the Committee to prepare for the launch of the Society's program to put plaques in front of the houses of Memorable Manitobans. Ross negotiated an important agreement with the Manitoba Real Estate Association that will cover the cost of installing ten plaques during calendar 2010, with more planned for future years. The City of Winnipeg has indicated a willingness to sponsor further plaques. Although he remains on the Plaques Committee, increasing pressure of work forced Ross to hand over the chair to James Kostuchuk, who has overseen the planning since last September. Besides the other Committee members, Joyce Wawrykow and Gordon Goldsborough, I have also taken part in the process. The program was launched just in time for Manitoba Day 2010, and we are now awaiting the delivery of the first five plaques. The houses to be recognized in this first batch are those of Prime Minister Arthur Meighen (at Portage la Prairie); campaigner for votes for women Nellie McClung (in the Wolseley district of Winnipeg); Victoria Cross winner Alan McLeod (at Stonewall); Group of Seven painter Lemoine Fitzgerald (in St James); and co-founder of the order of the Oblate Sisters, Marie-Joseph du Sacré-Coeur (in St Boniface). These plaques will be installed in the latter part of June, or perhaps early July. We are now inviting nominations of further homes of memorable Manitobans from the public, with a nomination form on the Society website. A blue-ribbon panel, of professional historians, will be used to review suggestions, to make sure the Manitobans are truly memorable, and that the historical information is correct. More plaques will be selected and installed before the end of 2010 and further ones in future years, continuing as long as suitable candidates are brought forward.

Historical Sites of Manitoba project. Another Society initiative, set in motion a couple of months ago and described in the last issue of Time Lines, grew out of a proposal, several years ago, to publicize small museums across the province, and raise public awareness of them. Means of communication have greatly changed since then, and Gordon Goldsborough, our webmaster and a member of the Executive, suggested that the project should be web-based, rather than using billboards as originally proposed, and should be built around an interactive map. This model would also permit many more points of interest to be included. Gordon has created a web resource called Historical Sites of Manitoba, which aims to show the exact locations of sites of all kinds—buildings and sites of buildings, plaques, cairns, statues, sites of events—throughout the province. Each site location, once on the map, is hyperlinked to a photograph, and to further information as available. The map can be used to plan historic jaunts or investigate unfamiliar places. The number of sites on the map is growing rapidly, but much work will be needed, as the exact location must be determined (using GPS technology) before a site can be inserted. Volunteers are needed to help with this, and the Society has purchased a GPS device which can be loaned for the project as needed.

In addition, the Historic Buildings Committee of the City of Winnipeg is hiring a GPS-equipped student to locate all the appropriate sites within the city limits, in the course of this summer. This will add several hundred sites.

In this connection, I have to compliment Gordon Goldsborough on the obvious success of the Society's website, which he administers. Among the resources to be found there, which he has assembled either on his own or with the help of students and small grants, is the new Historic Sites web feature; a collection of brief biographies of Manitobans, now including thousands of individuals; and some web tools of particular interest to genealogists. Almost all the back issues of Society publications, and past and current issues of Time Lines, are also available on the website.

I also extend compliments to Bill Fraser for his work as the editor of Time Lines. He has made it a valuable guide to historical and heritage events, not just those sponsored or organized by the Society, but by other organizations across the province. He also locates and summarizes news from a variety of media sources on important topics of historic interest, such as threats to heritage buildings; announcements of books on Manitoba history; and inquiries from researchers.

Congratulations are also due, once again, to Carl James, a long-time member of Council who has served the Society in many essential ways. Carl was the recipient of the Kemp Award for 2009–2010, for exceptional service to the Society. This award was made at the Macdonald Dinner in February.

Also under congratulations, James Kostuchuk, a high school teacher at Portage Collegiate and a member of our governing Council, received a Prime Minister's Award for Teaching Excellence last fall.

The Society sponsored the Speak Up Heritage Forum, on 19 January. This was a public consultation, part of the Speak Up Winnipeg project to collect information and public opinions for the new Plan Winnipeg. Organized in collaboration with Donald Luxton Associates, a consulting firm, the Forum discussed how the City of Winnipeg deals with heritage places, particularly when the ambitions of new development endanger historic buildings or spaces. The Forum, I am told, was the best attended of the Speak Up Winnipeg forums, and there certainly was a lively and informed discussion on matters that clearly are deeply felt in the community. Don Luxton's final report is now on the city of Winnipeg website. I hope that his recommendations will help the city move towards a more transparent way of deciding the fates of historic places in Winnipeg.

The Society arranged and sponsored a number of successful events and activities during the year, as can be seen from the Committee reports. At the Macdonald Dinner, on 2 February, the guest speaker was Jerry Gray, chair of the executive of the Friends of Upper Fort Garry, whom I invited to give us an account of the Friends' experience in their heroic and costly project of saving the Upper Fort Garry site. The Multicultural Dinner, held at the Belgian Club on 21 April, was a sold-out affair in which the Society greatly enjoyed an evening of delicious food, intriguing Belgian beers, charming entertainment, and warm hospitality. Besides this dinner, the Program Committee has continued its success in organizing a variety of other events. The Book Club has an enthusiastic and dedicated following, and the Young Historians Committee continues to attract interesting projects from students. The Centennial Farms, Centennial Business, and Centennial Organization programs have recognized more awardees, whose longevity reminds us of the importance of continuity in an era of change.

My thanks, as usual, are due to the Executive of the Society, particularly to Francis Carroll, who is retiring from the position of Secretary after four years of devoted and cheerful service. Bob Coutts continues his success as editor of Manitoba History. I've already mentioned the contributions of Bill Fraser, as editor of Time Lines, and Gordon Goldsborough, as webmaster. I also thank Linda Neyedly, Director of the Dalnavert Museum until the position was discontinued; Victor Sawelo, Manager of Ross House; and Jennifer Bowden, who has been acting as Linda's and then Jackie Friesen's assistant since last fall. Finally, Jacqueline Friesen, who assumed the duties of Chief Administrative Officer in February, deserves the Society's particular thanks for her detailed analysis and care of all our business affairs, and also for taking over the management of Dalnavert on an interim basis while the search for the new Chief Program Officer and Curator is completed.

Harry Duckworth, President

Chief Program Officer and Curator Appointed

The MHS Executive and the Search Committee are delighted to announce the appointment of Jennifer Bisch as our new Chief Program Officer and Curator of Dalnavert Museum.

Jennifer is a local curator of museum and film exhibitions. Her education in Social Anthropology from the University of Winnipeg and York University has trained her to examine history through the role it plays in memory and everyday life. In 2005, she conducted her Master's thesis field research in her hometown of Inwood, Manitoba, which explored memory, economics, photography, and nostalgia as elements of local history and culture. In her curatorial work at the Costume Museum of Canada, she connected with visitors through exhibits that explored clothing design, production, and its role in Canadian social history. Her curated film programs have engaged audiences with new and historical works of Canadian cinema through calls for original films and post screening panel discussions with artists and experts. She is currently involved in committees at the Winnipeg Film Group, the Winnipeg Art Gallery, the WNDX Experimental Film Festival, and the Manitoba Crafts Museum and Library. Jennifer is excited to be joining the Manitoba Historical Society as the new Chief Program Officer and Curator, Dalnavert Museum, and looks forward to meeting audiences both familiar and new.

Archival Scientific Drawings

The University of Manitoba Archives & Special Collections has made 108 hand-crafted botanical drawings and charts of Dr. A. H. Reginald Buller (1874-1944) available online. The drawings included in this digital collection were discovered by faculty of the University's Botany Department in Dr. Buller's original map cabinet. They consist of hand drawn, inked, and watercoloured botanical diagrams and charts. Several of the drawings were commercially produced although the majority of them were drawn, inked and painted by Dr. Buller himself. It is presumed that Dr. Buller used these drawings in his lectures. The original drawings date from 1905 to 1920 and are very large in size, often exceeding 3 or 4 feet in height. They are intricate in their design and beautiful to look at. One requires no knowledge in the field of botany to appreciate the artistry exhibited by Dr. Buller in the production of these lecture aids. Yet those with an interest in biological sciences will appreciate the drawings on an even greater level. View the drawings at <http://umanitoba.ca/libraries/units/archives/digital/buller/index.html>.

CHA Opposes Scrapping of Census Long Form

The Canadian Historical Association, Canada's leading organization of professional historians, recently released an open letter to the federal government, expressing its dismay at the announced intention of the government to cancel the long census form as part of our national census. It believes that this decision will significantly diminish the ability of Canadians to understand our country, and it will impair the capacity of future historians to write the history of Canada.

The CHA concerns are threefold. First, the census decision was apparently made without consultation with the population data research community, both university-based and genealogical researchers. Expert users from these groups have asserted that the elimination of the long census form will harm current efforts to understand trends in Canadian society. Second, abandonment of the comprehensiveness of the census will greatly reduce its usefulness as a historical source in the future. The optional character of the National Household Survey will result in uneven and unreliable measures of the questions contained in that form, preventing historians of the 22nd century from developing a comprehensive picture of Canada in our own age. Third, in scrapping the collection of comprehensive data, the government appears to be abandoning major social constituencies such as women who have used the aggregate data captured in the long census to identify anomalies and inequalities in Canadian society.

The CHA is asking the federal government to reconsider this decision and to reinstate the long census form. It also asks for a commitment to ensuring that these records will be made universally available to researchers within 92 years' time, in keeping with current practice.

New University Course in Oral History

This September, the History Department at the University of Winnipeg will offer a new course in Oral History. This seminar course introduces students to setting up an oral history project, including preparing for, conducting, and processing interviews. Students who successfully complete this course will be able to set up an oral history or other interview based projects to further their university studies, as well as for museums, historical societies, and community organizations (neighbourhood associations, clubs, businesses, etc.) The multidisciplinary methods of oral history ensure its relevance across the university curriculum. Students involved in interviewing projects will find this course of interest.

Projects in which students will have an opportunity to participate this year include a new long term project with residents of a Winnipeg inner-city neighbourhood. Students may also bring their own ideas on projects to the course.

The course will be offered on Wednesday, 2:30 PM to 5:15 PM in the new Oral History Lab/Classroom 2B22 of Bryce Hall. A number of classes will be held off-campus (e.g. Ukrainian Labour Temple, Manitoba Archives, Manitoba Museum, etc.)

For those interested in the course, please contact Dr. Nolan Reilly, Co-Director of the Oral History Center and Professor of History at the University of Winnipeg at 204-786-9011 or n.reilly@uwinnipeg.ca.

A sample plaque in the new MHS “Homes of Memorable Manitobans” program, based on the London Blue Plaques, will commemorate the homes of noteworthy Manitobans. The plaques will be mounted on metal posts in the front yards of the houses, so they can be read easily from the sidewalk or street. Actual size of the oval is 20 inches wide by 14 inches high.

Homes of Memorable Manitobans

The Homes of Memorable Manitobans program is organized by the MHS with sponsorship of the Manitoba Real Estate Association. The five plaques to be installed so far, with locations, are as follows:

- Home of suffragist Nellie McClung at 97 Chestnut Street (Winnipeg), from 1911 to 1914
- Home of artist and Group of Seven member Lemoine Fitzgerald at 30 Deer Lodge Place (Winnipeg) from 1924 to 1956
- Home of Prime Minister Arthur Meighen at 131 Dufferin East (Portage la Prairie), from 1918 to 1928
- Home of soldier and Victoria Cross recipient Alan McLeod at 292 Main Street (Stonewall), from 1899 to 1918
- Home of Alma Laurendeau (Marie-Joseph-du-Sacré-Coeur), co-founder of the Oblate Missionaries of St. Boniface, at 279 Provencher Boulevard (St. Boniface), from 1882 to 1904

The initial five selections were made by a committee of James Kostuchuk (Chair), Ross Metcalfe, Joyce Wawrykow, Gordon Goldsborough, and Harry Duckworth. The MHS website now has a page where anyone can nominate other homes of Memorable Manitobans, and a number of nominations have already been received—more are welcome, at any time. Future nominations will be vetted by a panel of professional historians, and the current house owners approached for permission to install the plaques. It is intended to install at least five more plaques this year, with more to come in future years, as funds permit and as long as suitable candidates are brought forward.

Heritage News

Arson was suspected when Winnipeg's historic Barber House at 99 Euclid Avenue in North Point Douglas was severely damaged by fire on 7 June. Earlier fires and vandalism damaged the log structure in the past, repairs were made and a high chain link fence was installed. A week before the fire the City of Winnipeg turned over the house and property to Sisters Initiating Steps Towards a Renewed Society SISTARS. The group planned to build a community day care centre and the historic house was to be redeveloped as a drop in centre for seniors. It is not known if the house can be saved. The estimated cost of replacing the roof and making other necessary repairs is $200,000. Barber House was often referred to as the oldest house in Winnipeg. Various sources date the construction of the house between 1862 and 1867. The house is a rare local surviving example of oak Red River Frame construction, based on the French "post on sill" technique. It was designated a Manitoba Heritage Site in 1987. For interesting information on Barber House and its owner, E. L. Barber, read the Spring 1974 Manitoba Pageant article by Lillian Gibbons on the MHS web site.

The Winnipeg Free Press reports that plans were unveiled for the new Upper Fort Garry Park on 12 May. Jerry Gray, chair of the Friends of Upper Fort Garry said that $10.3 million has already been banked and that a further $9 million is needed to complete the project within the next five years. Gray said that site preparation begins this fall and actual construction will begin next spring. The Friends of Upper Fort Garry have purchased the Grain Exchange Curling Club and plan to demolish it next year. Plans show a 23,000 square foot building that will house an interpretive centre, theatre, library and offices. University archaeological students will dig in the site this summer to determine the foundations of the buildings that were inside the fort.

The Neubergthall Street Village, a national historic site in Altona, will be upgraded courtesy of Parks

Canada. The federal government will contribute up to $20,895 to help preserve the Eddie Schmidt Housebarn in the Mennonite street village. Tory MP Candice Hoepfner made the announcement Wednesday in Altona. "Commemorating our heritage does not just mean remembering the past, but also using the past to enrich our present lives and help build our future," she said in a release. "Neubergthal Street Village has retained much of its original character and provides an exceptional heritage experience for visitors. Preserving the Eddie Schmidt Housebarn will enhance that experience."

Visitors to Brandon's Daly House Museum will soon be able to immerse themselves in the splendour of an authentic Victorian Garden. When complete, the garden will serve as a social garden for the community and a green space for people to quietly connect with the past, says committee president Murray Graham. The Westman Journal reports there is growing support in Brandon to name the new bridges over the Assiniboine River the Bachinski Crossing, in honour of a pioneer family in the city's North End. The Bachinskis were one of several families from Eastern Europe who settled in "the flats" area of Brandon in the early 1900s. Naming the bridge after the Bachinski family would be a tribute to the family and also to other Ukrainian and Polish residents of the city. The Bachinskis were market gardeners. A son, Mike, flew more than 50 missions for the RCAF during the Second World War and received a distinguished Flying Cross for his achievements. After the war he and his father operated a market garden. Mike Bachinski died in 1995. His house is now the site of the Riverbank Discovery Centre. A plaque on the grounds honours the Bachinski family.

The Turtle Mountain—Souris Plains Heritage Association is providing two tours and a book this summer to promote the area's history to residents and visitors. Summer student Teyana Neufeld has organized the tours since 2008. The first tour this summer will take place in the Turtle Mountains on 28 July. The tour will go across the mountain, starting from Deloraine, moving in a loop from west to east. Participants will see different historical sites and geological formations and hear different stories about the area. A second tour will be on 19 August in the RM of Edward, including Pierson and Melita. In 2009, Neufeld created an award-winning book Vantage Points using stories from the 2008 tours. A second book will incorporate stories from this year's tours and some previous work as well. The association also put out 20 geocaches. The Brandon Sun explains "Geocaches are physical treasures hidden in locations, accessible through websites. Hunting for them has become a major international pastime. Each TM-SPHA geocache includes postcards and historical information on them ..."

The Threshermen's Reunion and Stampede in Austin will be held from 29 July to 1 August. A new attraction is the people cart attached behind the horse-drawn sulky plough. The three-wheel cart seats two people and allows them to watch the sulky plough closely while working.

Le Coq Club in Ste Rose du Lac has donated $15,000 to the Town of Ste Rose du Lac for exterior restoration of Maison Dollard House, a former school that was designated a heritage building. The building now houses the Ste Rose Library and is the meeting place for the Knights of Columbus and other groups. Weekly bingo is held there. Le Coq Club is a voluntary organization that has made significant contributions to local projects.

The Ukrainian Musicians Association Hall of Fame was officially opened on 29 May at Rhodes Hall in Selo Ukraina near Dauphin. The event honoured 40 musicians with the Manitoba Legendary achievement award. The Hall of Fame includes memorabilia from Ukrainian musicians in Canada and the United States. This August during Canada's National Ukrainian Festival six more artists will be inducted into the Hall of Fame.

The Beautiful Plains Museum in Neepawa held an apron show in the Viscount Cultural Centre from 19 June to 3 July. Over 100 aprons from the 1920s to the present were on display. Aprons from the 1920s and 1930s were bib aprons usually made of flour sacks decorated with colourful stitching. In the 1940s heart aprons and half aprons appeared. Aprons became more ornate and frilled to "look good for the boys coming home." Aprons of the 1950s were often designed for special purposes such as entertaining, cooking, gardening and sewing.

Nintieth-anniversary celebrations were held at the Franklin Memorial Hall on 13 June. The hall was built in 1919–1920 in memory of lives lost in the First World War. It was the social centre in the Second World War for airmen from several countries who trained at the Neepawa air base. Part of the hall is now a museum. It includes artefacts from the area and a replica of the Franklin CPR station. There is a special room in the museum which recreates the station agent's office.

The Valley Leader reports on the Rural Permit Teachers' reunion at the Prairie Homestead a museum north of Elm Creek. Between 1940 and 1962 over 7,000 high school students, mostly in grade 12, took a six week crash course to become a teacher for a year in small rural schools throughout Manitoba.

No one individual did more to establish the Icelandic presence in North America than Sigtryggur Jónasson, the first Icelander to settle in Canada (1852 to 1952), the "Father of New Iceland" and a champion of the new spirit of Canadian pluralism. During his extraordinary lifetime, Sigtryggur served both the Icelandic community and Canada in many ways, as a pioneer community leader, immigration agent, entrepreneur, captain, editor, publisher, civil servant, philanthropist, Member of the Manitoba Legislature, etc. Icelandic River Heritage Sites Inc. intends to commission a sculpture of Sigtryggur and erect a life size statue of the "Father of New Iceland" on the site of his historic homestead, now the site of Riverton's Centennial Park. Donations and bequests are tax deductible. In 2008 the New Iceland Heritage Museum made application to the Canadian National Historic Sites Directorate to have Sigtryggur Jónasson declared a "Person of National Historic Significance." This application has been supported by a Historical Services Branch researcher with a recommendation that the commemoration be situated at Riverton—Sigtryggur's home community and the site of his administration as the elected head of New Iceland. Confirmation of the designation is expected in 2010. For more information see the website www.Icelandicriver.com. Direct all correspondence and contributions to IRHS at Box 555, Riverton, MB, R0C 2R0.
